

Anniversary for Platinum

Iain MacIntyre

Australian-based customs clearance agency, Platinum Freight, has recently celebrated its 15-year anniversary as well as six months of operation in the New Zealand market.

Founded in Sydney by chief executive Peter McRae, the firm is understood to have achieved over 100% year-on-year client growth for the past five years and was recognised in the 2015 Australian Shipping & Maritime Industry Awards.

In a media statement, Platinum advised that it was expecting further expansion into new markets as well as offering increased services in 2016, with additional appointments to be announced in the next financial quarter.
